Trustee vote declared invalid

By Terry Martin
and Debby Ratemann
Daily Egyptian Staff Writers

The Dec. 5 student trustee election was declared invalid Monday by the six-student special judicial board in a unanimous decision by secret ballot.

At a press conference Monday, the board recommended a special election be held as soon as possible, although another will be held in any event this spring.

Chairperson Mary Day said the decision was based on the fact that disqualified candidate Larry Rafferty's petition was probably forged "by party or parties other than Rafferty or his campaign workers."

The board did not attribute the forgeries to any other persons. "It seems highly unlikely that this number of people (27 witnesses) could have conspired to deceive the board. The personal stature of the persons questioned seems to cast doubt on a conspiracy theory," the board statement said.

The board's official statement said petitions were left unlocked and unsupervised for an unspecified amount of time.

The statement also said, "At least one polling place was out of ballots for at least one hour, and there were occasions in which certain polls had only one poll worker at specified times."

Board member Clare Young said the board "did not blame" the four-man election commission, but stated the commission "acted in haste without the necessary extension of due process" in disqualifying Rafferty the night before the election.

Matthew Rich, who won the election, did not attend the press conference because of a class conflict. Later Monday, Rich said, "That's good. Now I can get back to my 21 hours of classes. SIU is the biggest joke." Rich said he is not sure he will run if a special election is held.

Rich was removed from his position as trustee designate by the board before hearings began. He attended two Board of Trustee meetings and had moved into the trustee offices in Forest Hall.

Rich was declared winner of the Dec. 5 election by the election commission, but was never officially recognized by the Board of Trustees.

Rich said, "To the 690 people who voted for me, I'm sorry. I did my best. I'm going to go over to my office and take out my plants and important papers. I've already got a souvenir of the election—my scar."

He was referring to an unsolved stabbing incident in which two men in ski masks allegedly attacked him outside his office in Forest Hall.

Disqualified candidate Rafferty said after the press conference, "I don't know if I'll run again. The report is substantial enough for a new election. I definitely don't think the last election was the best we've ever had."

Rafferty was referring to election Commissioner Steve Nuckle's statement that the Dec. 5 election "was the best." Nuckles said he found the board's decision "very valid."

"They based their decision on the forgeries," Nuckles said. He agreed with the board's recommendation that a committee be formed to study the trustee election laws. "The laws are inadequate," Nuckles said. "They try to cover too much and have areas that are unclear."

Student Body Vice President Jim Kania and (GSC) Executive Secretary Sharon Yeargin both expressed doubts that a new special election would be feasible.

Matthew Rich

"There are a lot of problems which have to be worked out—money, time, organization, possible hurt feelings," Kania said. He estimated a new election would probably cost $2,000.

Mary Day

"I'm in shock," Ms. Yeargin said. "I can't believe they reached this kind of decision. It's logical but not realistic. I don't think we could run any election

SIU dean of international education defends validity of doctoral degree

By David C. Miller Jr.
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Basil C. Hedrick, SIU's dean of international education, defended the validity of his doctoral degree from the Interamerican University of Mexico Monday.

The school was recently tagged a "diploma mill" by Lincoln Canfield, visiting professor of foreign languages. "I know the work I went through, the sweat I went through..." said Hedrick.

He denied anyone helped him with work on the degree and said it was "unequivocally not true" that he bought the degree.

Questions about Hedrick's degree arose after release of Canfield's review of the school, in Saltillo, Coahuila. Canfield was chairman of a task force which evaluated Mexican and Spanish summer school programs for Americans last summer.

"It is in no sense a university," Canfield said last week. His evaluation criticized the school's meager library, a general lack of quality teachers, and the quality of most Ph.D. dissertations and theses accepted by the school.

"Most of them would have made fairly acceptable term papers at the undergraduate level," the evaluation read, but Canfield pointed out several of the doctoral works were "pretty completely done."

Canfield's report mentioned one of the school's graduates who had a list of more than 100 Ph.D. degrees, with many of them from the school.

"There was no indication at all I was in the midst of a 'diploma mill' situation," Hedrick said. While he said he noticed nothing unusual during his summer visits to the school over four years, Hedrick agreed there was a possibility the "diploma mill activities" were real.

But Hedrick defended his degree, explaining he built up a personal library of more than 300 volumes to compensate for the school's poor library. He said he also did research in the Mexican national archives in Mexico City.

"I did not get off easy... by any U.S. standards," Hedrick said. "I'm proud of it (my degree), that's all I can say."

Canfield said degree-granting institutions must be legally recognized by Mexico's Secretariat of Public Education, the National Autonomous University of Mexico (UNAM), or the state government where the school is located. UNAM and the Secretariat do not recognize the Interamerican University (IU), Canfield said, adding he did not believe the State of Coahuila had licensed the school either.

Hedrick said he believed the school was licensed by the state while he was there, during the summers of 1963-67. "If I was misled, I have no way of knowing that, literally," he said.

Hedrick said he had "nothing but respect" for Canfield and had no doubts Canfield's assessment of IU was accurate. But Hedrick said the school had apparently deteriorated since his stay there, and he was "very, very sorry if that's what happened to it."

He said he decided to attend the Saltillo school to "get an emphasis in

Scrubbing device to receive inspection by Gov. Walker

Gov. Dan Walker will be at SIU Tuesday to inspect a new scrubbing device which is to be used in anti-pollution experimentation here.

Walker will hold a press conference from 10 to 10:30 a.m. at Fire Station No. 3, then proceed to the central steam plant for an inspection of the scrubber.

Howard E. Hesketh, associate professor of thermal and environmental engineering, is in charge of the scrubber experiment which is being funded partially by a grant from the Illinois Institute for Environmental Quality.

Hesketh will be working with a pilot plant model of a scrubber system developed by Chemico of New York and donated to SIU for testing. When installed on the boiler plant smokestack, the scrubber unit will remove sulphur emissions resulting from the burning of high-sulphur coal.

Grocers see shortages due to truck strike

By Charlotte Jones
and Brenda Penland
Daily Egyptian Staff Writers

A strike by independent truckers to lower the price of diesel fuel so far has caused only slight supply shortages in Carbondale supermarkets and small groceries, but many store owners and managers said they expect severe shortages beginning Wednesday.

John Walker, owner of Kirby's Market, has been notified that he probably will not get his order of chickens due Tuesday. Conrad Etherton, a butcher at Kirby's, said the salesman for the chicken company told him not to expect his order to be filled until at least next week because the company truck had been stopped by independent truckers in Missouri.

Richard Kelley, owner of Kelley's Big Star, said his dairy truck scheduled to arrive Tuesday didn't show up. Kelley said he also expected to have trouble getting meat from Swift and Armour companies in St. Louis. "Independent truckers have been forcing a lot of company trucks coming from St. Louis to stop. We'll be lucky if the meat trucks get through," Kelley said.

Kenneth Davie at Davie's AG Store said one truck containing drugs and small hardware hadn't arrived because the company truck had been stopped in Arkansas. Davie said he expected to have shortages of a lot of foods by the end of the week.

David Pulcher, manager of Boren's IGA, canceled his advertising this week for fear of not getting supplies. "The IGA warehouse in St. Louis only had one case of lettuce today and may not get anymore this week. The warehouse is supposed to ship eight truckloads of supplies Wednesday but there is no guarantee that they will get to Carbondale," Pulcher said.

Randy Needham, who works at Charlie's Market, said the Emgee meat company had told them they probably wouldn't receive their order this week. "We small groceries already have had problems getting all of our orders. Sometimes we get only half what we ask for. The big stores get first choice. This strike could cause us some real problems," Needham said.

None of the 15 local restaurants contacted report being affected by the trucker's strike although all three Dairy Queens report they are very much affected.

A truck driver on his way to Carbondale to deliver supplies to the three local Dairy Queens was pulled over by other truckers in Olney and forced to park his truck.

Steve Baril, manager of the Murphysboro Dairy Queen, said he had to send a pick-up truck to Olney to pick up the supplies.

He said he had to borrow some supplies from the Dairy Queen in Carverville in order to open for his first day of business Monday.

Joe Waicukauski, lease operator of the Carbondale Dairy Queen, said he thought at first he wouldn't be able to open Tuesday as planned.

But since the supplies are now available, he said he plans to open for his first day of 1974 business Tuesday.

Baril said the supplies should last a couple of days and then another trip with a pick-up will have to be made to pick up more supplies.

Motion made for default judgment in SIU's suit against terminated 104

By David C. Miller Jr.
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

A motion to obtain a default judgment in the SIU suit against the 104 terminated employees was filed in Jackson County Circuit Court Monday, and a motion to keep the case out of federal court was made in East St. Louis.

Carbondale Attorney John Feirich, representing the University, said more than 45 days have passed since notice of the suit was filed against six defendants representing the 104. Court procedures allow the defendants 30 days to reply.

A default judgment could come, he said, despite the defendants' action to take the case to federal court. The removal petition was not filed in the state court, Feirich said, and so the 30-day waiting period was not interrupted.

"I think the motion (for default) is extremely well taken," Feirich said Monday night. He said the default hearing could come up in two weeks, "assuming a routine course of events."

The SIU lawsuit seeks a declaratory judgment against the 104, okaying the December firings on the grounds of a bona fide financial exigency. The 104 were laid off after a proposed cut of $2.7 million in SIU's budget next year.

The motion to remand the court action to state level was filed in response to the defendant's claim to the federal court that the terminations were in violation of First and Fourteenth Amendment rights. Feirich held the case did not come under the jurisdiction of the Federal District Court for Eastern Illinois.

Feirich's motion said there is no proper federal claim or right involved in the case, nor is there a diversity (interstate) of citizenship. Action on the decision to remand may take a month or longer, Feirich said.

In the meantime, the case is still in state jurisdiction. Feirich said the lawsuit could be finished if the Jackson County Circuit Court grants the motion for a default judgment.

Several moves are still open to the six employee representatives and their attorney, Feirich said. But the next move's up to them, he added.

"They're the ones who've been dragging their feet," Feirich said. The University suit, he said, attempted to quickly answer whether the terminations were legal, but the "ancillary action" of moving to take the case to federal court was slowing down the decision.

Permanent shutdown

Financial problems close SIU fire unit

By David Kornblith
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Fire Station No. 3, located near the SIU Physical Plant has closed down permanently as of Monday, said Fire Chief Charles McCaughan.

It had been reported earlier by University and Carbondale fire officials that the station was to close on Friday.

McCaughan said that the station is closing for a couple of reasons.

"We will be able to keep the men together which will give us better company strength," McCaughan said.

Firemen who had previously manned No. 3 will now work out of No. 2, located at the corner of Oakland and Walnut Streets, and No. 1, located at 222 E. Main St.

There will also be a financial benefit for the taxpayers of Carbondale, McCaughan said.

When No. 3 was open it had to be manned by firemen who were paid overtime, McCaughan said. There were not enough firemen to man all three stations.

University and fire officials said that service to SIU will not be hurt as a result of the shutdown of No. 3. "They will render the same level of service," said Gene Peebles, SIU business manager.

The Carbondale fire department was also losing money because they had to keep up an unneeded station, McCaughan said.

Even though the city of Carbondale did not have to pay rent to SIU for the use of the building or for the use of the $32,000 fire truck owned by SIU, they were losing money on upkeep and overtime, McCaughan said.

Presently, SIU is paying $80,300 for fire protection, McCaughan said. Last year the figure was $93,000. The rate difference is determined by the number of full time students at SIU.

The greater number of full time students enrolled, the more money SIU must put out for fire protection, McCaughan said.

The building vacated by the fire department will be used by the Physical Plant, Peebles said.

"We're always short on space, we could make good use of it," said Tony Blass, director of the Physical Plant.

Unregistered bikers to get verbal notice

David Kronblith
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

SIU and Carbondale police have started to issue verbal warnings for unregistered bikes, police officials said Monday.

It had been reported earlier that the Carbondale police would start issuing written tickets to bike offenders who had not registered by Monday. But, they changed their minds because there were still many people who had not registered, said Wayne Martin of the Carbondale police.

"People are continually coming in to register their bikes and we want to give them ample time," said Mike Norrington of the Security Office.

The University has registered more than 1,300 bikes and the city has licensed more than 2,100, Norrington said.

Both police departments have decided to start issuing written tickets Feb. 18, they said.

A ticket from the city will cost the bike owner $5. Tickets issued by SIU police will be $3 for unregistered bikes, Norrington said. There will also be a $1 charge for any bicyclist breaking any of the University regulations on bike safety.

SIU police will also start impounding bikes on Feb. 18, Norrington said. They will lock up a bike with their own chain and lock if it is not registered, Norrington said.

A note will be attached to the chain explaining to the owner-violator that he or she should come into the Security Office, pay the fine and then have the bike registered, Norrington said.

Those who have not registered their bikes can do so Monday through Saturday at the Security Office on campus and the Police Community Services Center, 312 S. Illinois Ave.

Registration will continue Monday through Friday at the parking section at Washington Square.

J-Board unanimously finds student trustee vote invalid

better than the last one, except the one in April."

A trustee election is scheduled to be run with the spring student senate elections, probably in April. The winner of that election will serve as student trustee from June 30, 1974 to June 30, 1975.

"We need a student trustee right now," Kania said. "It's very important that we have one on the board; the sooner the better."

If a special election is held, all twelve candidates in the Dec. 5 election would be eligible to run again "at their own discretion," Ms. Day said. No new candidates would be allowed to run.

Ms. Yeargin said executives of both GSC and Student Senate should review the board's report and present them to their respective bodies for action.

Kania said the report "would definitely" be discussed at the Senate meeting Wednesday. "It has to come up; it's one of the most pressing issues right now," Kania said.

Kania said he had "no idea" whether the Senate would approve a new election. "Money is the primary issue," he said.

Board member Joe Kostyk said, "We've done our job to the best of our ability." If the Senate and GSC refuse to hold a special election "that's their problem," Kostyk said.

The board issued its 80-page report after days of hearings and deliberation.

After their final hearing ended past midnight Thursday, the board deliberated four hours. They continued to work on their final report Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Copies of the report were sent to Gov. Dan Walker, SIU President David Derge, Chief of Board of Trustees Staff James Brown, Board Chairman Ivan Elliott, Jr., GSC and Student Senate.

Board member Lawrence Beckerle disclosed at the press conference that threats had been made to members of the board. Beckerle said an anonymous phone call received by one member threatened all six.

A general referendum last October established guidelines for the Dec. 5 election. The SIU-C student body, in the biggest turnout ever for an SIU election, voted for a trustee election by the general student body. More than 5,000 ballots were cast in the referendum.

The Dec. 5 election was contested by three defeated candidates—Daniel Schuerling, Ronald Ruskey and Rafferty. A board to hear the complaints was appointed by Yeargin and Student Body President Mike Carr.

areas where I was prepping for inter-American studies." Two other schools in Mexico offered similar programs, he said, but one was continually torn by student strikes and the other was in the process of location and administrative change.

The Saltillo school offered a chance "to let me go in and out on a 'three months at a time' basis," said Hedrick. He said he went to the Mexican school because, "When you have a love affair with a country, you like to go there."

Hedrick said he obtained his Ph.D. in 1967. He had done previous doctoral work at SIU-C, Mexico's University of the Americas, and the University of Florida. His M.A. came from the University of Florida, and his A.B.

from Augustana College.

Leaving a position as assistant to the president of California's Fullerton College, Hedrick came to SIU-C in 1967. He said he approached the administration about his degree to insure there would be no misunderstandings about its origin.

"I wanted to be certain they realized the degree was from outside the U.S. It was not brought up in an apologetic manner," Hedrick said.

Hedrick said he ultimately talked with former Chancellor Robert MacVicar and received MacVicar's okay for his job as assistant professor and assistant director of the University Museum.

"I'm very sorry that people have seen fit to raise this type of nonsense again," Hedrick said Monday. "No one (of my colleagues) has given me one iota of static or grief about this."

Hedrick mentioned several "poison pen letters" he has received in the past.

Keith Leasure, academic vice president, confirmed a "paste-up" letter was received by his office about one year ago.

The anonymous letter, Leasure said, raised questions of Hedrick's "academic legitimacy." Similar letters, Hedrick said, were sent to the Board of Trustees.

Although there was no clue about the sender, Leasure said he decided to check Hedrick's background anyway.

"I didn't find anything irregular," Leasure said. "And I am satisfied with Dean Hedrick's formal qualifications for the position he holds."

Both Leasure and Hedrick denied there were plans for Hedrick to take a leave of absence any time soon.

Boycott is 'most effective weapon' of farm workers against growers

By Rafe Klinger
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The boycott is the "most effective" weapon farm workers have against the growers—even more effective than legislation, said Rich Cook, St. Louis boycott coordinator for the United Farm Workers (UFW).

Cook spoke Thursday before an audience of 45. He was invited to SIU by the Committee to Defend the Right to Speak, the Young Socialists Alliance and the Free School only one week after the Student Senate voted 12-11 against supporting the UFW lettuce and table grape boycott.

"A Simple, effective, non-violent boycott is the most effective thing" that can be done right now to aid migrant farm workers in their quest for better living conditions against the growers Cook said.

"A strike won't work," he explained, because the growers can hire wetbacks to take the workers place. "Legislation won't work," he said, because the farm workers have "no clout"—no representation in Congress—and any bill could be amended to death or actually used to dilute farm workers' rights.

In 1948, when the National Labor Relations Act (NLRA), was passed giving workers the right to collective bargaining and to strike, the farm workers seemed to be at the mercy of their employers since farm workers and domestic servants were excluded, Cook explained. However, the farm workers have turned this around. The NLRA forbids included groups from boycotting and it is the boycott that is the farm workers' most effective weapon.

And apparently aiming at his student audience, Cook said, "If everyone can find some practical way to boycott, no one will ignore it. Is it so hard to ask an institution not to buy scab lettuce?"

Fire, police board refuses to present defense to Eckert's violation charge

By Dan Haar
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

The Board of Fire and Police Commissioners refused to present its defense to Mayor Neal Eckert's charges that the board has not complied with a city ordinance at the Carbondale City Council meeting Monday night.

H. Carl Runge, an East St. Louis attorney representing the board, told the council that the board would "not litigate in front of a public forum what is now before the court."

Runge was referring to the writ of mandamus which the council, at its Jan. 21 meeting, directed City Attorney John Womick to obtain from the Jackson County Circuit Court. The writ would require the board to comply with a city ordinance transferring the board's administrative functions to the city manager.

The board is scheduled to appear before the circuit court Feb. 14 to defend itself against the writ.

The three charges made by Eckert Jan. 28, Runge said, stemmed from the city ordinance now being contested in the court. "The issue before the court is also before the council," Runge said.

Before the hearing got under way, Eckert explained his reasons for holding it while the issue was still before the court.

The writ of mandamus, Eckert explained, was requested to require the board to submit a list of eligible candidates to city manager Carrol Fry for filling a vacancy in the police department, as is required by the city ordinance.

Also, the court will hopefully rule on the validity of the ordinance, Eckert said.

Eckert said he requested the dismissal hearing for the board during the court suit because the board members have failed in their duty as municipal officers to uphold city ordinances.

"The city is litigating against itself," Eckert said. He added that the burden falls on the taxpayers.

Speaking for he board, Runge said that the members took an oath to uphold not only city ordinances but state statutes as well.

The board has contended that the city ordinance is an alteration of a form of government and must be passed by a public referendum. Since no referendum was held, the board has held the city ordinance illegal.

Runge concluded his presentation by stating that he would not contest the charges before the council.

During a break in the council meeting,

Eckert said he thought Runge and the board members did not understand why the hearing before the council was held while the matter was before the court.

He said the board members could contest the ordinance as citizens but as board members they were sworn to uphold the city ordinances.

Eckert said they have not carried out their duty and that is why the dismissal hearing was requested.

Eckert has charged that the board "failed and refused to recommend to the city manager the name of three qualified and eligible people for a position on the Police Department of the City of Carbondale, after having been requested to do so."

The second charge is that the board acquired the services of an attorney other than the city attorney, to represent the board without requesting authorization from the council as is required by the city ordinance.

The last charge is that the board "has failed to comply with Ordinance 73-94 of the City of Carbondale, Illinois, and has definitely expressed desire to violate said ordinance."

Eckert has asked that the council formally act on the charges at its Feb. 18 meeting.

'Skin flicks' for credit

TROY, N.Y. (AP)—Watching "skin flicks" for college credit, the dream of many an undergraduate, may come true for certain students at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute.

The school says it will offer a course called "Focus on the Flesh Film" this winter, and part of the course requirement is to attend a number of controversial films at local theaters.

According to instructor Wayne Losano, the course will delve into the moral, legal, cinematographic and social significance of the film genre. He stressed that the course was a serious academic undertaking.

"We should have no trouble getting the maximum number," he said.

Democratic and Republican caucuses will meet Tuesday to select candidates for the Jackson County Board election to be held April 2.

Seven of the 14 seats on the county board are open this year. Currently, Republicans hold a 9-5 edge on the board.

To participate in a caucus a person must be a registered voter and have claimed a party affiliation. However, it is not clear as to what constitutes a party affiliation.

Delmar Ward, Jackson County clerk, said past voter registration will be one factor in determining affiliation. He also said a newly registered voter may announce his affiliation at one of the caucus meetings.

The county board is responsible for a yearly budget of between $1-2 million. The board controls the budget of all county offices including sheriff, coroner and clerk.

Four of the seven board districts include parts of Carbondale. The schedule for the Democratic and Republican caucuses in Carbondale shows:

District 4, located north of Main Street and on both sides of the railroad tracks, including Precinct 11 in Murphysboro. The Democratic caucus will be at 7 p.m. in the Carbondale Savings and Loan office on West Main Street. The Republican caucus will be at 2 p.m. in the federal housing office on North Marion Street.

District 5, located in west southwest Carbondale and far south, includes Thompson Point, Small Group Housing, Evergreen Terrace, Baptist Center, Parish Acres and neighborhoods west to the township line. The Democratic caucus will be at 7 p.m. in the community building at 208 W. Elm St. The Republicans will meet at 5 p.m. at the Church of Good Shepard, Orchard Drive.

District 6 is located in west central Carbondale from Main Street to Mill including Chautauqua Lane, and from the railroad tracks to Emerald Lane. Democrats will caucus at 7 p.m. at the Unitarian Universalist Church, 301 Elm St. Republicans meet at 6:30 p.m. at the Church of Good Shepard, Orchard Drive.

District 7 is located south of Main Street and east of the railroad tracks. Democrats will meet at 7 p.m. in the Carbondale Township Hall. Republicans will caucus at 2 p.m. in the same place.

Letters

People in a green Chevy

To the Daily Egyptian:

I am very angered and very sad as I write this letter. I see everyone supposedly concerned about so many serious and depressing issues in the world today. We sit back and live our lives regretting and condemning what we hear. But when it gets right down to it we ignore it anyway, along with so many other things.

I would like to point out a very sickening situation right here in Carbondale as well as the rest of this country. It's partly apathy, or perhaps stupidity, or just plain don't give a damn. That's the way this "All American City" functions. This is the way we exist. The issue I'm talking about is cruelty to animals. Right away I bet I just lost 50 per cent of the people reading this article. As insignificant as it might seem to some, think about it for a minute.

I was behind a green Chevy, about a 1966, on January 9th, when they ran down a small dog on South 51. Should I call it murder and get laughed at, or should we call it sick. Perhaps they had no choice. Let's say the dog jumped out in front of the car. In this instance, however, this wasn't the case. They still left the dog sitting in the road. I was right behind them and it shocked me that they didn't even touch the brakes. I stopped and picked up the dog, almost being hit by other "considerate" people hurrying home. I proceeded to take the dead animal to the Humane Shelter so they could dispose of the body.

The Humane Shelter is a sight that everyone should see just once to get the full impact of the condition. Too many animals end up there with a sure future of death. It's about time the people of this town get it together. Before getting an animal, let's think of the reasons we're getting one. What about you fad freaks playing the role? Do you have your animal because it's the cool thing to do or because you know you can give it a good home and share companionship?

All I can say is the whole matter makes me sick and I wouldn't hesitate to smack someone to the mouth for actions like that green Chevy. So please—don't just read this and forget it. Go look at the Humane Shelter and their incinerator. I hope you people in the green Chevy feel real good—you sure made my day!

Go Salukis!

To the Daily Egyptian:

When I entered school at SIU in the fall of 1972 it was the first time I had ever been near Southern Illinois. But the reputation of SIU's basketball team of the late 60's, led by Walt Frazier, reached me in northern Wisconsin. I followed the basketball Salukis regularly last year, but I shared with many fans the disappointments of a frustrating season. I was one of the first to agree with the fans who were skeptical of Coach Paul Lambert's ability. The 1973-74 Salukis obviously have more talent but I can't deny the quickness with which this talent has been developed, especially in the younger players. Part of the development is due to the maturation these players receive from playing with a strong team against tough competition. A great deal of credit, however, belongs to the coach who has molded this team, thereby increasing the effectiveness of individual talents. Congratulations to the Salukis and Coach Lambert for a fine season and good luck in the coming weeks.

Daily Egyptian Opinion & Commentary

EDITORIALS—The Daily Egyptian encourages free discussion of current issues through editorials and letters on these pages. Editorials—labeled Opinion—are written and signed by members of the student news staff and by students enrolled in journalism courses and represent opinions of the authors only.

LETTERS—Readers are invited to express their opinions in letters which must be signed with name, classification and major, or faculty rank, address and telephone number. Letters should be typewritten, and their length should not exceed 250 words. Letter writers should respect the generally accepted standards of good taste and are expected to make their points in terms of issues rather than personalities. Acceptance for publication will depend on limitations of space and the timeliness and relevance of the material. Unsigned letters will not be accepted, and authorship of all letters must be verified by the Daily Egyptian. It is the responsibility of the Daily Egyptian to determine content of the opinion pages. Other materials on pages four and five include editorials and articles reprinted from other publications, syndicated columns and articles, and interpretive or opinion articles authored locally.

Editorials Registration blues

Registration is on the minds of most SIU students right now, as spring schedules and course requirements plague nearly everyone. However, for students planning to graduate in August, 1974, some significant problems are being realized with few solutions stemming from University officials.

Due to the changeover from quarters to semesters starting Fall, 1974, the summer quarter will be cut short two to three weeks because fall classes will begin in August on the semester system, rather than in late September. For those students who must attend summer school, a limitation has been established concerning the number of hours allowed to be taken. The reason for this limitation in hours is that 3-hour courses, for example, will be meeting more hours per week to allow time for full course content. This puts summer students at an extreme disadvantage, since course conflicts are sure to result, and many students needing more hours will have to attend school in the fall to fulfill graduation requirements.

One can foresee a feasible solution to these problems. Since the semester system in its initial stage, it is not necessary for school to begin early in August. Summer school students should be allowed 10 weeks to complete their classes and their hours, and fall semester should begin approximately two weeks later. This would require a shorter Christmas break for students next year, but at least all students would be given an opportunity to graduate at the proper planned time, and course waivers would not result, as has been rumored.

The semester system could revert to its originally planned August opening in Fall, 1975, when the system has been into effect for a year.

It is true that many problems will have to be ironed out with the semester changeover; however, a move to avert some preliminary problems is indeed a step in the right direction.

Party school?

Discussion has been renewed lately concerning SIU's reputation as a party school and the possible effect it may be having on enrollment.

SIU and the words party school have been closely associated for many years now but the meaning of party school has never really been spelled out.

Is it a place where students come to have a good time seven days a week to the detriment of everything else? Or, rather, is it a school where a lot of entertainment is always available for those who choose to utilize it?

A university comprised of the hedonists that would be required to live up to the former definition could not possibly survive. The latter definition is probably the more accurate and if so, SIU is no different than any other comparably sized school.

The fact remains that justifiably or not the bad rap has stuck to SIU and will probably not come unglued for quite some time.

To launch a full-scale campaign to change our image would involve refuting specifically charges that have only been implied generally and would most likely be counterproductive.

The way to best handle the problem is to ignore it. SIU has many excellent and innovative programs of which it can be proud. Eventually fame connected with these things will displace the dubious fame connected with the party school image.

Who's a hypocrite?

To the Daily Egyptian:

Please forgive me, Mr. Crabtree, for taking the defensive, but frankly, when under attack for my beliefs I often resort to such deplorable necessities. I also wouldn't be too concerned about being considered "hypocritically altruistic". How anyone could consider your letter altruistic, hypocritically or otherwise, is hard to believe considering the content.

Yes, it is true that minorities have no excuse for resorting to violence and hatred instead of reason. I'm sure the Jews could have used reason instead of plagues, thirst, and death to escape Pharaoh. European churches could have used reason instead of murdering thousands of Arabs to free Palestine during the crusades.

When you say "We are not religious, we are Christian...", am I to assume that you are not (according to Webster's), "pious, devout, godly, scrupulously faithful, or conscientious"? I think you mean that you are not a member of an organized religious structure. But if you are not a member of an organized religious structure, who are you including when you say "We"? It is not clear you understand what you are saying.

I would not wish you to be apathetic about your philosophies. I respect and admire your desire and effort to air your views.

You say that love is one of your primary goals. In that we are of one mind.

Homosexuality is real for me and I live it. That is a truth and not a lie. I live my truth, but I do not contend that for you to live it would be a lie. It may or may not be, that is your decision. Likewise, you have no right to apply your truths to me. You do not even know me. Do you realize that by calling me a liar you have judged me and that your own Christ instructed you to judge no one's action but your own?

I do not despise you. Do not be so rash as to interpret other's angry replies to your "pleas" as hate. Many people have directed hateful words at me. Yet I do not assume that every black, Jew, and heterosexual hates me or is a hateful person.

Dear Mr. Nixon:

Our Mr. Nixon, who art in Washington (San Clemente, Key Biscayne, China and 'amp David), hallowed be they sincere attempts at character assassination, they King timahoe com., thy will be done at Watergate and Tax inquests as was done secretly in South East Asia, give us, you "fellow Americans," another "perfectly clear" TV appearance and forgive us our laughter as we forgive Mickey Mouse for wearing a Spiro watch. Lead us not into gasoline rationing, but deliver the N. Y. Stock Exchange "for sale," Henry to the borders of '67, Bebe to the plumbors of '72, our wheat to Russia, our jets to Israel, our Toilet Paper to the N. Y. Times' publishers, our Wounded Knee activists and Viet Nam "deserters" to jail and our universities to bankruptcy for the sake of new Interstate highways...

For thine is the finger which erased the tapes, and the power which condemned Richardson, Dean, Hunt and Erlichman, the glory of Operation Candor, the benefits of capital ($ gain, the oil corporation kick-backs and "Foocy" Phases 1, 2, 3, 4...5...

They do know kazoo music

To the Daily Egyptian:

While reading Linda Lipman's review of the Terry McGhee concert, in which she so cleverly called Sonny Terry the "blind Ian Anderson of harmonica," I thought to myself, "she knows as much about blues as a six-year-old knows about electronic music."

Then while reading Dave Streans review of the multi-media concert, I thought to myself, "He knows as much about electronic music as Linda Lipman knows about blues."

Bateman speaks

To the Daily Egyptian:

Regarding Steve Crabtree's third installment on his denunciation-damning of all homosexuals: "He fears the lady doth protest too much." Ah yes, closets are scary.

Lane Bateman
Author LYING IN STATE
Graduate, Theatre

If you believe that I and many homosexuals have not found "true love", spiritual and sexual, then I invite you to talk to my wife or any of my friends, male and female,—some of whom would give their very lives in my defense. Your own Christ tells you, "Greater love hath no man than this..."

Your allegation that the Bible contains no discrepancies smacks of that defensiveness that you previously denounced.

You suggest Christ as an alternative to homosexual love. You also point out that Christ preached abstinence from the lusts of the flesh. Would you also suggest Christ as an alternative to heterosexual love? If Christ had intended total abstinence would you be alive? I think He meant abstinence from sex for sex's sake, i.e., sex without love.

I agree God is love. Never would I have either word silenced. Never would I shout you, God, or love down. Can you produce proof that every homosexual does what you say they do? I think you may be living in the false paranoia of a self-created bugaboo.

You deny abusing me or others by your letter. Yet you abuse me by your lack of understanding, your apparent lack of grasp of many of the words you used, and by jumping to conclusions that seem to stem from a personal paranoia.

The only proof you offer for your statement that anyone accuses you of abuse is wrong is that you have decided you are right and anyone who disagrees is wrong.

I pray (yes, to the same God, Mr. Crabtree) for forgiveness for my lack of lovingkindness in this letter, but somehow I fear that accusations and bluntness may be the only things that you might understand.

You see, homosexuality has no persecution of Christians inherent in its existence. It seems that your brand of Christianity has persecution of homosexuality inherent in it. It is not I who am judging you, it is you who are judging me. I am not self-righteous enough to say that what is right for me is right for everyone else, as you seem to be.

And, although I will not judge you by saying you are hypocritical because then I would be a hypocrite, I can honestly say that I see nothing in your letter to disprove that and many things that seem to indicate you may well be.

Christ loves you

To the Daily Egyptian:

Mr. Bruce McAllister, I am truly sorry if you have got the idea that God hates you. If-Christ loved a egotistical, self-righteous person like me enough to die a painful death on the cross, then He surely loves you. The Bible says: "For scarcely for a righteous man will one die: yet peradventure for a good man some would even dare to die. But God commendeth His love towards us that while we were yet sinners Christ died for us." (Romans 5:7,8). If you would like to discuss this in love (agape) you are always welcome.

"Of course, I have a conscience... dammit!"

Biblical evidence

To the Daily Egyptian:

The reason that Steve Crabtree can say that homosexuality is a lie is clear when you read "For the wrath of God is revealed from heaven against all ungodliness and unrighteousness of men, who suppress the truth in unrighteousness, because that which is known about God is evident within them; for God has made it evident to them. For since the creation of the world His invisible attributes, His eternal power and divine nature, has been clearly seen, being understood through what has been made; so that they are without excuse. For even though they knew God, they did not honor Him as God, or give thanks; but they became futile in their speculations, and their foolish heart was darkened. Professing to be wise, they became fools, and exchanged the glory of the incorruptible God for an image in the form of corruptible man and of birds and four footed animals and crawling creatures. Therefore God gave them over in the lusts of their hearts to impurity, that their bodies might be dishonored among them. For they exchanged the truth of God for a lie, and worshiped and served the creature rather than the Creator, who is blessed forever amen. For this reason God gave them over to degrading passions; for their women exchanged the natural function for that which is unnatural, and the same way also the men abandoned the natural function of the woman and burned in their desires towards one another, men with men committing indecent acts and receiving in their own persons the due penalty of their error. And just as they did not see fit to acknowledge God any longer, God gave them over to a depraved mind in that they do those things which are not proper; being filled with all unrighteousness, wickedness, greed, malice; they are gossips, slanderers, haters of God; insolent, arrogant, boastful, inventors of evil, disobedient to parents, without understanding, untrustworthy, unloving, unmerciful; and, although they know the ordinance of God, that those who practice such things are worthy of death, they not only do the same but also give hearty approval to those who practice them." (Romans 1:18-32).

So it becomes clear that those who go against God's will do not need to worry about Steve Crabtree or any other person, but most important, our Creator. God wants all to go to heaven, but all do not think he is serious.

Unfair to Kol Shalom

To the Daily Egyptian:

In reference to Mr. Mysko's criticism in the Daily Egyptian of January 31, 1974 that Kol Shalom and other minority groups should not get student activity fees; I feel this goes against the ideas of a democratic community. Is he suggesting that the Black newspaper, Uhuru-Sasa should not get its funding ($7000), also? What about the French, Spanish, and Italian clubs? If the six Ukranian students (numbers according to Dr. Igor Shankovsky, Ukranian professor at SIU) want a newspaper, great, but they shouldn't deny the 2000 Jews, and 3000 Blacks their papers also.

We call on the responsible elements of the academic community to oppose this kind of minority oppression.

"All's Well That Ends Well"

Ambivalence marks play

By Julie Titone
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

When the Southern Players became Carbondale's own Shakespearean Troupe last weekend, their performance of "All's Well That Ends Well" had one basic problem. It may have ended well, but it didn't end soon enough.

Not that director Elin Stewart-Harrison didn't extract a few good scenes from her cast of 40-plus. But a bit of judicious editing of the two and a half hour play would have quicken the pace a bit. Although one of Shakespeare's characters in the play was referring to virginity when he said, "the longer kept, the less worth" can often apply to plays.

The play features the maneuverings of Helena, a virtuous but lowborn woman, in her attempts to win Bertram, the snobbish man she loves. Geneva McCammon's performance of Helena displayed a bit of stumbling and a bit of promise. John Webb had the ungrateful role of Bertram, a man whose side the audience is not apt to take. But while one doesn't expect to like Bertram much, at least his portrayal could have been a little more likeable.

Webb was a trifle blah, especially in contrast to some of the soul shown by McCammon.

Nancy Callahan lent a note of stability to the play. With her portrayal of the Countess, mother to Bertram and guardian of Helena, she was graceful and confident, despite the cold that troubled her.

Malcom Rothman played Parolles, the devilish but likeable follower of Bertram. Rothman can be credited with most of the chuckles heard. In several instances his bounce alone kept the show on its feet.

Other bright moments in the evening were provided by Thomas Doman as the King of France through whom Helena got her man, and Andre Sedricks as Lafew, an old lord with the proper tinge of wisdom and humor.

Costuming, with the exception of Bertram's rather unbecoming attire, was very good, as was the simple stage design of J. Amburn Darnall. While Lonny Gordon's choreography was less than masterful, the twirling couples did add a little life to the production.

Blocking problems presented themselves several times. But the large number of lesser characters and changing scenes were bound to cause a problem in "All's Well."

which is hardly Shakespeare's best comedy. Which leads to the question of why this particular play, out of all of the man's challenging but less "troublesome" works, was chosen for the Southern Players in the first place.

Community plan stresses freedom

By Bob Morgan
Student Writer

An SIU teacher is planning to create a community which he hopes will allow its members complete freedom to do "their own thing."

Roy Clarke, assistant professor of speech, plans to call his brainchild the Church of Life and the Intellect (COLATI). Clarke plans to start his Colatian communities later this year on land he owns in Canada. However, Clarke envisions a day when COLATI will buy an island and have its own nation.

Clarke claims that COLATI will offer an alternative to the present system which he believes is based on "racism, greed, hate, aggressiveness and competition." He said these "anti-life" forces have doomed all societies. Clarke does not believe that anything can be done to remedy these ills and that the only hope is to establish an alternative society.

COLATI will not have any specific dogma or beliefs other than respect for life and the supremacy of the human intellect, he said. Members will not be allowed to join the military or participate in any type of aggressive activity. Clarke, who sees man's intellect as his most unique quality, hopes that COLATI will provide its members a chance to develop themselves intellectually.

He does not see COLATI reaching out to save society. "Each individual has to change himself," Clarke said. "I don't even believe in non-violent protest. I know this

Sad at closing

LONDON (AP)—A thousand beer lovers plan to drink their town dry as a protest against plans to close Britain's oldest brewery.

But the giant brewery combine which is switching production to another brewery says, "These beer drinking gentlemen needn't worry. The Joles beer will continue to be brewed to the same secret recipe."

system is doomed."

Before joining COLATI, a person will be required to fill out an exhaustive questionnaire on his beliefs and attitudes. Only those who "enjoy life and who are intellectually and sexually free," will be admitted. Members will be required to pay a fee to COLATI's expenses.

Clarke said that COLATI will offer its members legal services, total insurance coverage and the best possible educational facilities. With these social security programs, Clarke hopes to create an atmosphere of minimal tension.

Clarke plans to use the tax-exempt status of his church to the economic advantage of its members. He plans to invest in real estate and profitable businesses. When asked if COLATI would invest in companies producing war materials, Clarke said, "Sure, as long as Colatians aren't dropping the bombs."

Eventually, Clarke sees COLATI becoming an economically independent community. Long-range plans include the construction of casinos and "Playboy style" resorts which COLATI would own and operate. Clarke hopes that COLATI will someday have its own businesses, schools, hospitals, housing and transportation facilities. "Money is power," Clarke said. "When you have power, people don't hassle you." He believes communes have failed because they lacked the power to defend their lifestyles.

Clarke said other organized religions have abused their power. "Religion today is a rip-off in many cases. It's the biggest business in the world and can't help but be a rip-off," he said. "Traditional religion infringes on personal freedom."

Clarke said he has a group of 20 people who are totally committed to COLATI right now. With this group forming the nucleus, Roy Clarke hopes to create a community for those who don't want to become "submissive, human robots."

Answering Letters with David R. Derge

Dear Dr. Derge:

Born and raised in New Jersey, a state where two out of every three students are forced out of state to seek their college educations because of the lack of facilities, ignites great pride in a school like Southern Illinois University at Carbondale. After graduating from Miami Dade Junior College in Florida in 1970, I came to this school in the Spring of 1971 hoping to finish college, but was forced to pay high out of state tuition fees which I did not have. With the understanding and guidance of the Office of Financial Assistance and Mr. Les Siege, Mr. Belt of the Bursar's Office, and Assistant Registrar Henry Andrews, I was able to obtain a first class education.

However, the most important aid in my educational endeavors came over a year ago when Azad Homayoon, supervisor of the Mirror Activities Office, hired me as a writer for the Mirror. This job not only provided me with the funds to continue my education, but it has also helped me to develop a sincere respect for the faculty of this university.

The important role the Mirror plays is its goal to provide a meaningful booklet to the students and faculty at SIU. My staff and I have worked very hard in producing this, the seventh issue of the Mirror. We hope the faculty will begin to awaken to the idea that the Mirror is not only important, but is imperative. The new Mirror includes a new cover design donated by Iraj Sarvarian, "The Mirror Top Twenty," The Mirror Wants You, The Composite Winter Sports Schedule, The Mirror Apologies and 58 pages of course evaluations (twenty more than any previous Mirror.)

Dr. Derge, less than one-eighth of the faculty participates in our evaluation process. How meaningful can the Mirror be when a student can find only a handful of evaluations? Please look at the new Mirror and, as the President of this University, help us to achieve the Mirror's goal of providing a meaningful source of information to both the students and faculty of Southern Illinois University.

Robert K. Flach
Supervisor, The Mirror

Dear Mr. Flach:

Participation in the Mirror's evaluation program at this time is a matter of choice by faculty members and departments. The more voluntary evaluations you receive and publish, the more meaningful the publication. I certainly endorse such evaluations for the benefits derived by both faculty and students.

In a letter to Dr. JoAnne Thorpe, Chairperson, Faculty Senate, dated September 27, 1973, I requested that "the Faculty Senate, in cooperation with the Student Senate, . . . undertake a joint project to produce an effective, compulsory, University-financed teacher evaluation program." Until such a compulsory evaluation program is realized, I would urge our faculty to participate as fully as possible with the Mirror.

Dear Dr. Derge:

What was finally decided regarding the student radio station WIDB, in their attempts to obtain permission to have commercials on their station? I seem to remember some controversy surrounding their proposal, and, if my memory serves me, the station even went off the air for a period of time in January 1973. Following that I recall you set up a special committee to study the whole idea. What were the results of the committee's findings and what stand are you taking on this matter?

Personally, I think it wouldn't be a bad idea in light of the fact that money has been a problem in almost every area of the University. As I am sure you have already realized, WIDB could generate whatever amount of money advertising sales and at least partially fund their organization, possibly to a point of being self-supporting.

Your thoughts and comments would be appreciated.

John (Rich) Dancaster
Junior, Radio-Television

Dear Mr. Dancaster:

An ad-hoc committee was appointed in January, 1973 to study the issues surrounding the WIDB proposal to sell commercial advertising. The committee submitted its report in December, 1973. No agreement was reached on some issues and individual recommendations were presented by each member.

I, or someone on my staff, plan to meet with the committee soon to discuss the report. I am hopeful that the issue will be resolved in the near future.

Dear Dr. Derge:

Last quarter in your column someone questioned the split finals week. If I remember correctly you said that this was because Christmas was an unchangeable date and therefore the finals week had to be split up. What is your excuse this time?

Al Lenz

Dear Mr. Lenz:

A look at the calendar shows that split finals occur once every four or five years. When New Year's Day falls in the latter part of a week, Winter Quarter begins the following Monday. A Monday beginning means there will be no split finals, because Winter Quarter runs eleven full weeks. When New Year's Day falls at the beginning of a week, Winter Quarter begins the same week. A mid-week beginning means there will be split finals.

The early semester system begins next fall, and will end split-week finals.

If you have any questions, ideas, suggestions or problems write to me. I will be happy to respond.

Job placement deemed good

Engineers and technicians in the class of 1973 enjoyed a good year for employment and for those in the class of 1974 the prospects for employment look brighter than ever, according to the Engineering Manpower Bulletin received by S. Lee Wohlwend, placement and consultant for Career Planning and Placement Center, Southern Illinois University. The Bulletin said more engineers and technicians were employed last year and fewer were without job offers than in 1971 or 1972.

"This nationwide survey showed the placement status of 1973 graduates, the engineers demand as compared to other graduates, starting salaries, and the demand outlook for 1974," said Wohlwend. The survey made some interesting points concerning choice of specialization.

"The survey warned against specializing in too narrow a concentration," said Wohlwend. "These people may find themselves in great demand one year and in a surplus the next." According to Wohlwend the strongest demand is for those students who have a sound knowledge in one of the basic branches of engineering. "The bulletin anticipates some problem in the glamor fields, such as environmental or biomedical engineering, as these areas have been oversold in the past few years."

The Bulletin reports that salaries continue to rise and the student with a Bachelor's degree in engineering averaged $930 a month in 1973. As compared with other graduates, engineers win hands down in demand, except in the area of accounting, where the two fields are about equal in demand.

"The information compiled in the survey supports the trends observed by Placement Services at Southern Illinois University," said Wohlwend. "The Bulletin's salary information is obtained directly from the College Placement Council of which SIUC is a contributing member."

SIU cancer research seeks cures

(EDITOR'S NOTE: SIU is more than Morris Library, faculty firms, standing in line and Joe C. Meriwether. It is also, as is any large dynamic university, research. This series takes a look at SIU research into a subject of universal interest: cancer.)

By Randy McCarthy
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Cancer is one of the most feared words in the dictionary.

The American Cancer Society estimates that 19,000 persons in Illinois will die from cancer in 1974 and that one out of every four persons living in the United States will eventually have cancer.

Four of every six persons who get cancer will die from it. One of these four could have been saved with proper treatment.

The only hope of the remaining three is the research being carried out in hundreds of institutes and universities across the country.

Some of the persons working to understand the cause and cures of cancer are working at SIU. Niles is trying to discover a solution to the entire cancer dilemma because it can't be found. There are many different forms of cancer that strike at many different parts of the body. No one solution can cure them all.

SIU has a research budget of $6 million plus an additional $2 million in funds to pay student workers assisting researchers. Because of budget cuts and shifting priorities, money for research has become increasingly hard for scientists to find.

Among the problems a researcher must contend with is budgeting his time between the teaching required for University faculty members and his research. Recent cutbacks in the faculty have aggravated the problem.

Hassan Rouhandeh, professor of microbiology, is the director of the Molecular Virology and Cancer Research Laboratory that is investigating the role of viruses in causing cancer.

Rouhandeh and his assistants are studying the effects of the Yaba monkey virus which causes cancer in monkeys and humans who are exposed to it. The virus is unusual because it limits the malignant process and the ill person recovers, Rouhandeh said.

Cells affected by the virus reproduce but may become malignant and begin to multiply at an unusually fast rate.

Another member of the molecular research laboratory is Richard Gilmore, assistant professor of microbiology. He is working on the element that activates RNA—the medium through which DNA (the storehouse of genetic information) sends its signals.

Gilmore has done research comparing the RNA in normal and cancerous cells and has studied the differences between the two for an indication of how the virus causes cancer. He also is interested in the genetic information carried by the virus that transfers hereditary characteristics between generations.

Hermann Haas, professor of zoology, is doing research on the importance of the surface membrane in a cell and on the significance of the difference between the net electrical charge of a normal cell and that of a cancerous cell.

All communication between the cell and its environment is carried out through the cell membrane, Haas said. He wants to find out the cause of the difference between the charges of the two types of cells and their effect.

A look into the effects of dietary fats on the body and their link to cancer is being studied by George Gass, professor of physiology. Gass is the director of the Endocrinologic Pharmacology Research Laboratory and has found that DES—hormones once used to fatten cattle—caused cancer in laboratory mice and were still present in the liver of the cattle after they are slaughtered.

He testified in 1971 before Congressional hearings seeking to band the drug and has continued to do research on mice. Gass said he has found that fat intake causes some forms of cancer.

Michael Sung, assistant professor of chemistry and biochemistry, is investigating the way normal cells regulate their growth so he can understand how cancerous cells operate. He said he is studying the chemical and biological function of histones—(proteins which are associated with DNA)—in gene regulation.

Sung explained that because the histones interfere with the transmission of genetic information he is interested in how the histones attach to the DNA and how they recognize which part to join to.

Maurice Ogur, professor of microbiology and the director of the Gene-Enzyme Laboratory, is working on a theory explaining the way one regulatory pattern in cells operates. Ogur has done years of research using yeast cells to study genetic and metabolic disorders.

Ogur said that once a cell becomes cancerous it is unregulated and may reproduce itself and variations of the regulatory machinery. He said he is trying to find out the reason for the breakdown of the machinery.

Herbert Hadler, associate professor of chemistry and biochemistry, is investigating the effects of cancer-producing chemicals on animal cells. He is working on the way these chemicals interfere with the biochemical mechanism by which the energy of food is released by oxidation where the cell carries out work.

Tomorrow: An SIU researcher goes against the mainstream.

Chicago man charged with battery following knifing Sunday morning

By David Kornblith
Daily Egyptian Staff Writer

Carbondale police arrested a Chicago man on a charge of battery and aggravated battery, they reported Monday.

Tommie Lee Griffin, 22, of 4929 Quilly St., Chicago, was arrested Sunday after he allegedly cut up Samuel Green, of 306 E. Elm St. with a knife, police said.

Green had walked out of the Palms Lounge, 220 N. Washington St., at 2 a.m. Sunday, when the suspect allegedly started cutting him up, police reported.

Green was taken to Doctors Hospital for treatment of his hands and stitches on the throat and chin, police said. At first he was not able to sign a complaint because his hands were bandaged. He was released from the hospital after treatment.

He identified Griffin as his alleged assailant in the hospital.

Griffin also has been charged with the alleged beating of Wayne Thomas, 19, 403B E. Chestnut St.

Thomas had apparently gotten into a quarrel with Griffin at the One Step Beyond Bar, 215 N. Washington St., police said. He told police he left to avoid trouble.

When Thomas came into the police department to make out a report, he was cut on the lower lip and under the right eye, police said. He made his identification of Griffin from a mug shot book.

Griffin is out of Jackson County Jail on $200 bail. Sheriff's Police said Monday. He is to appear in court on Feb. 20.

Lot of books

JERUSALEM (AP)—Israel's printing industry ranks third after Sweden and Holland in the number of new books and editions republished, with 76 per 100,000 population yearly.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Syria appears to have dashed American hopes for an early end to the Arab oil embargo.

Newspapers reported Monday that Syrian President Hafez Assad won firm pledges from Saudi Arabia and Kuwait to continue the embargo until the Syrians sign a disengagement pact with Israel on Syrian terms.

And Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam said Syria will settle for nothing less than an Israeli commitment to "total withdrawal from Arab territories conquered both in the 1973 and 1967 wars."

Arab oil ministers are scheduled to discuss the oil embargo against the United States at a meeting in Tripoli, Libya, on Feb. 14. The reports on Syria hinted at what conditions may be set for lifting the embargo.

Business majors to get career help

Richard E. Gray, consultant, Career Planning and Placement Service, will be available for consultation about placement matters from 1 to 5 p.m. every Wednesday, in the Advisement Center (Classroom Building, Room 125) of the College of Business and Administration.

Business majors seeking advice or other assistance in obtaining employment are invited to take advantage of this new service. Appointments are desirable but not necessary, and can be made by calling 453-5735.

Travel study trip will be discussed Wednesday night

An explanation of the travel study trip to Europe being sponsored by the Division of Continuing Education will be given at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in Lawson 131.

Kendall Adams, SIU professor in marketing, said the presentation is intended for anyone interested in the nine-week trip to Europe.

Adams said the faculty from the Division of Continuing Education and students who have gone on past trips will be present to answer questions about the trip.

The sign-up deadline for the trip is Feb. 15, Adams said.

Afro-American art expresses heritage

By LaVerne Ollie
Student Writer

Mike Henderson were represented in the slides.

Ms. Perry mentioned that she also has compiled a book on black art and artists in America.

"Afro-American art is all art produced by Americans of African origin or descent," Ms. Perry said.

Speaking of her background, Ms. Perry said she had studied Afro-American art because black artists had been omitted from art education.

"I like to describe myself as self-trained in Afro art," she said.

She described the 1960s as a renaissance for black expressionist artists, saying black people really became aware of their African heritage then.

"The Harlem Renaissance differentiated in that it was smaller and more specialized," Ms. Perry explained.

The renaissance of the 1960s was a broad and open kind of phenomenon which sought to include the masses of black people, she said.

"We're not traditionally a museum-going people," Ms. Perry explained. "Therefore, many black artists have created neighborhood museums in bringing art to the people."

Black expressionist art is going to be even stronger during the 1970s, she concluded.

There are two main categories of Afro-American artists, Regina Perry, an art professor at Virginia Commonwealth University, said at a Black History Month program Saturday night.

Ms. Perry said the abstract nonobjective school of black American artists consist of mainstream persons who are accepted artists.

On the other hand, black expressionist artists are those who are committed to art with which black people can identify.

"They strive to express themselves from a heritage and cultural point of view," she explained.

A good artist, though, should not be biased, Ms. Perry added.

"In spite of the adversity, the black expressionist artist still outnumbers the abstract nonobjective artists," she said.

Ms. Perry's presentation on black expressionism of contemporary Afro-American art consisted of showing and explanation of numerous slides that she compiled on black expressionist artists and their works. Artists such as Charles White, David Bradford, Timothy Washington, Cleveland Bellow and

Gray lists academy choices

Rep. Kenneth Gray, D-West Frankfort, announced this week a list of his nominations to the U.S. Military Academy, Naval Academy and Air Force Academy, which included seven area residents.

Bruce A. Townsend of Herrin was nominated by Gray to the U.S. Military Academy at West Point.

Nominated to the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md. were Gary L. Elliott of Grand Tower, James L. McNeill of Carterville and George D. Gass of Carbondale.

Brian J. Young of Murphysboro, Lance F. Laybourn and Henry D.

Granberry III, both of Carbondale, were included with those nominated to the U.S. Air Force Academy by Gray.

Gray said that the nominations authorize the men to take competitive examinations required by the academies.

The announcement from Gray's office urged "all young men from the 24th Congressional District of Illinois who are interested in an appointment to one of the military academies next year to contact him during the coming months."

said details of the salary negotiations will be released later this week. He said a special session of the board will be held Thursday night as requested by Board President Charles Lerner. The purpose of the session will be to discuss collective bargaining, Holder said.

Holder said negotiations were conducted Friday and Saturday after the arrival of Allen Harrison, a member of the American Arbitration Association. Harrison was contacted last month by the teachers' association and the board to aid in the salary negotiations, which have been in progress since last summer. Harrison arrived in Carbondale Friday afternoon.

A recorded message on the telephone hotline at the teachers' association said the mediation process has terminated and that more "definite" information would be available Friday night.

28 indicted on theft charge

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—Twenty-eight men from Southern Illinois and western Missouri were indicted Monday by a federal grand jury in connection with the theft of $100,000 in goods from railroad cars in the Madison County switching yard.

The 13 indictments, returned before Judge Harlington Wood Jr. of U.S. District Court, completed an 18-month investigation.

The indictments charge that railroad cars passing through the Madison yard near Granite City were misrouted to remote areas of the yard and were looted.

The goods, which included liquor, ammunition, tires and air conditioners, allegedly were sold in the St. Louis metropolitan area. The indictments said.

Guest Day plans draw students to SIU campus

About 225 potential transfer students from community and four-year colleges throughout the state learned about SIU during Guest Day Saturday.

"It went very well," said George Mandis of the Office of Admissions and Records, which sponsored Guest Day. "Turnout was excellent. We had students from everywhere—Chicago, Moline, Danville, and many other schools."

Mandis said "probably 50 or 60 students" took advantage of Guest Day's "instant admission" whereby transfer students were admitted on the spot if they had acceptable transcripts.

"A lot who attended had already applied to SIU," Mandis said.

A student panel "went really well," Mandis said. "The panel members talked about student life and the campus. It was excellent."

Wall Street Quads to open basement bar

Wall Street Quads becomes the first housing complex to have its own bar when it opens a lounge in the basement Wednesday.

The bar, located in the former commissary area, "offers an alternative to going downtown to have a drink," Raoul Ayala, Quads general manager, said Friday.

The Quads received a Class E liquor license in January. It entitles the bar to sell beer and wine if the purchaser also buys some food. A person can't just go in and buy a drink in an establishment with this license, said Leilani Weiss, Mayor

Neal Eckert's secretary.
"All drinks sold must be in an open-topped container and cannot be taken out of the lounge area," Avala said.

The bar, which is open to the public but mainly for the convenience of residents, will be open seven days a week, Ayala said. The bar serves several sandwiches and maintains a small commissary which sells bread and milk, he said. Ayala added that a game room is attached to the bar.

PR Club plans to elect officers, discuss changes

The Public Relations' Club will hold elections for a new secretary and treasurer at a meeting at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Student Center Activities Rooms.

Bill Bauman, club advisor, will also discuss changes in the public relations curriculum that will be caused when SIU changes over to semesters from quarters.

All public relations majors are invited to attend the meeting.

Saddle clubbers to meet Tuesday

Sam Young will address the Saluki Saddle Club meeting at 8 p.m. Tuesday in Wham, Room 319. Young will discuss lameness: its causes and effects.

A business meeting will be held after Young's presentation. All those interested are invited to attend.

SIU Grapplers now 3-9-1

By Kenneth Pilarski
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The Saluki matmen suffered through another weekend of frustration as they were saddled with back-to-back losses to Iowa State 26-13 Friday night and Nebraska 21-20.

The Salukis may have lost the services of sophomore Jim Horvath. The 167 pound grappler suffered a possible shoulder separation Friday during his match with Iowa State's Bernie Hansen.

Horvath suffered the injury 13 seconds into the second period. Horvath remained in the match and was pinned at the 2:13 mark.

Freshman Clyde Ruffin captured SIU's first points of the night with a 10-4 decision over Dean Sherman in the 142 pound match.

At 167, Don Stumpf won a four point superior decision over Dan Peterson 14-0. And sophomore Mark Wiesen picked up the final Saluki points of the night when he pinned Tom Jean at the 5:57 mark in the 177 pound match.

Saluki wrestling coach Linn Long said, "Wiesen is progressing really well. He has made big strides since December and I'd have to rate him as the most improved wrestler of the season."

In Saturday's match with Nebraska, the Salukis fared slightly better, picking up four wins and a tie. But the results were the same with SIU finding themselves on the short end of a 21-20 score.

Senior Andy Burge got the Salukis rolling with a 3-2 decision over the Cornhusker's Dennis Zuk in the 118 pound match.

The Salukis watched the next two matches fall by the wayside until Clyde Ruffin picked up his second win in two nights with a 4-2 decision over Tony Jennings. Ruffin was out part of the season with an injury and since returning has won four out of five decisions. Long said, "Ruffin has really bounced back since his injury."

At 158 pounds, Tim Maday drew Mark Borer 3-3 and Don Stumpf captured his 14th win of the season when he pinned Len Dickenson at the 4:46 mark.

Mark Wiesen continued his excellent wrestling as he captured his second straight pin and his 13th win of the season. Wiesen's pin came at the 6:26 mark over the Cornhusker's Bill Hoffman.

With a 3-9-1 dual record, the Salukis return to action Saturday against Brigham Young University and Colorado Mines.

Last year Brigham Young finished fourth in the nationals and is ranked 10th nationally in the university division. Last year

Brigham Young finished with a 14-3 record.

Colorado Mines is ranked in the top five in the college division and finished last season with a 3-10 record. Long said, "Colorado is really strong at four weight classes where we are vulnerable."

U.S. net coach knocks Connors

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Dennis Ralston, striking back at critics of the Bogota bushwack, has criticized Jimmy Connors and wants another chance to restore U.S. Davis Cup tennis supremacy.

Ralston, in a telephone interview from Palm Springs, Calif., where's the pro at Sunrise Country Club, said he wanted to continue as non-playing captain of the U.S. team in 1975.

And he said he wants critics to stop blaming Stan Smith and Arthur Ashe for not playing at Bogota, Colombia, where the United States was eliminated from this year's Davis Cup competition by the Colombians.

"I don't want to knock Connors," Ralston said, "but the knock is there."

Ralston said the absence of Smith and Ashe was justified.

Mark Kenny and Earl Raaf push off during the first heat of the 50-yard backstroke during Saturday's intramural swimming and diving competition. Kenny captured the first heat with a time of 28.8 and later won the first place trophy with a time of 29.0 in the finals. (Staff photo by Dennis Makes.)

Trackmen finish last in Kansas triangular

By John Morrissey
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Injuries to key sprinters and sub-par efforts by some track regulars plagued the SIU track team to a third place showing in Saturday's triangular contest in Lawrence, Kan. Nebraska edged Kansas 59-54, and SIU finished with 48 points.

"I feel like two things kept us from winning the meet," Saluki coach Lew Hartzog said, namely, "injuries (to Lonnie Brown and Mike Monroe) and what I felt were sub-par performances by a few of the track members."

Hartzog said an injury to Brown's ankle "kept him from competing at full strength in the mile relay," which SIU lost to Kansas 3:21.5-3:21.7. He said Brown and Terry Erickson came up with sore legs last Wednesday in practice, and Brown compounded his injury on his second attempt in the long jump Saturday.

"I still feel we should have won the mile relay," Hartzog insisted. "We had four seasoned members on it."

Mike Monroe pulled up in the 60, and Hartzog said his ailing leg, also injured in Wednesday's practice, prevented him from competing in any other event.

Other misfortunes sliced into SIU's showing in the sprints. Joe Laws jumped the starting gun twice in the 60 finals and was disqualified. Hartzog said Laws had been looking good and might have stayed with Kansas' Mark Lutz, who won the 60 in 6.3. SIU still placed Gerald Smith second and Eddie Sutton third, both in 6.4.

One of the main "sub-par performances" Hartzog mentioned came in the 1000 yard run, where SIU's three entries finished far off the lead. Nebraska won the race in 2:12.3, and SIU's first man, Gary Mandehr, came in "around 2:18." Hartzog said. Al Stanczak and Carl McPherson finished right with Mandehr. Stanczak had done 2:12.1 earlier this season. McPherson 2:13.4.

Wayne Carmody won the 440 in 50.4, on a Kansas 220-yard dirt track considered to be very slow. Erickson lost his 600 race to Jay Wagner of Kansas, 1:12.9 to 1:13.5.

In spite of his ailments, Brown managed to win a first place in the long jump from Danny Seay of Kansas, rated third in the nation on the basis of a 25-foot-4 jump recorded last month. Brown beat Seay on his last jump, which measured 24-6 1/2. Seay's best was 24-5 1/2, and SIU's Bill Hancock was third with 23-5 1/2.

Brown also won the 60 high hurdles in 7.5 and the 60 low hurdles in 7.0. Phil Robins won the triple jump with a field house record 50-foot, 4-inch effort, and Ken Lorraway finished second at 50-3. Hartzog said they could have gone farther, but he held them out after three jumps to guard against unnecessary injury.

Hancock could manage only a third place in his specialty, the high jump. His 6-7 best was off Kansas' Randy Smith's winning jump of 6-11.

In other events, Lyon Hall of Nebraska took the mile in 4:09.7, ahead of Jerry George's 4:17.7 third-place finish; Bob Unger of Nebraska won the two-mile in 9 minutes flat; while Gerry Craig finished third in 9:15.6. Larry Gnapp of Nebraska (formerly of Lane Tech High School in Chicago) headed the field in the 880 at 1:57.8, outrunning Pat Cook's 1:59.5 (4th place); and Steve Millard headed a 1-2-3 Nebraska sweep in the shotput with a 52-foot, 3 1/2-inch effort.

Illinois State coach praises SIU cagers

Heavy traffic

Amidst the heavy traffic of arms and legs, Saluki center Joe C. Meriweather controls a rebound. Tim Ricci rides Meriweather's back and Redbird Rick Whitlow reaches over Ricci. Meriweather ended the night with 23 points and 23 rebounds as SIU downed Illinois State 87-69. (Staff photo by Dennis Makes.)

By Mark Tupper
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Clutching the lapels of his royal blue sportsjacket, gentlemanly Illinois State Coach Will Robinson shuffled to a seat and addressed Saluki leader Paul Lambert.

"You gotta good one," Robinson said. You gotta good one. They're a barn burner. They're a real good bunch, Paul. You gotta ballclub, I'm unhappy to report."

Robinson was praising the SIU team that had baffled his, Redbirds, 87-69 with a powerful second-half shelling Saturday night in the SIU Arena.

"It's the best ballclub you've had since you've been here, Paul," Robinson stated. "You gotta good one."

And a good one it was. The rivalry between centers Joe C. Meriweather and Redbird Ron DeVries perhaps was the most colorful since the two first met. Both players had outstanding games—deVries taking the scoring war and Meriweather dominating the rebounding and shot-blocking totals.

An electric first half ended in a brutal 39-39 tie. Meriweather set the pace early when he rejected 6-7 Calvin Harper's jump shot and then quickly hammered a second Redbird shot caroming off the ISU backboard.

Illinois State took an early lead, but the Salukis tied the game at 12 all on Mike Glenn's swish from the corner.

A physical, fast-paced first half came to a peak when Meriweather stole the ball at mid-court, glided the length of the floor in four bounces and fired in a leaping stuff shot. The basket wasn't allowed, sending a red-faced Lambert to his feet in protest.

The Salukis opened up a 24-15 lead, but 11 unanswered Illinois State points, put the Redbirds back on top. Baskets by Meriweather, Shag Nixon and the baseline drives of Corky Abrams knotted the game five more times, before the 39-39 intermission score.

The hook and jump shots of 7-0 deVries accounted for 15 of the Redbirds' first half points. Meriweather had 10 rebounds and 11 points for SIU.

Abrams, the 6-6 freshman forward from Atlanta, Ga., had the best of offensive night of his 16-game career. He opened the second half scoring with a tip-in.

Hawkins and deVries countered for ISU, but a three-basket outburst by Meriweather put the Salukis in front by five. SIU stretched the margin to nine points on a shot up the middle by Perry Hines.

DeVries scored 17 of his team's first 21 points in the second period. But the rest of the Redbird shooters were victimized by a strong SIU defense. Another barrage from Meriweather burst open a 73-60 lead.

Abrams got into foul trouble when he picked up his fourth personal with 11:32 left in the game. And when Abrams was nailed with his fifth foul at the 5:58 mark, the 6,495 vocal fans, applauded his 14-point, 10-rebound effort.

Nixon, Hines and Meriweather outscored Illinois State 14 to six in the final three minutes to complete the 18-point whipping.

DeVries hit 12 of 27 shots from the field and eight of 11 free throws for a game high 32 points and six rebounds. Robert "Bubbles" Hawkins had 10 and Rick Whitlow eight for Illinois State. The two guards combined for 59 points in the Salukis' 82-80 overtime win earlier this year at Normal.

Meriweather grabbed an awesome 23 rebounds and matched it with 23 points. Abrams' 14 points came on his seven of eight tries from the floor. Glenn and Nixon had 12, Hines 10 and Dennis Shidler eight points for SIU.

"It was an exciting first half," Robinson continued. "I only wish we could have kept it up."

"We played well defensively," a pleased Lambert said. "And we moved the ball well on offense, hit the open man and hit the basket. It doesn't do you any good if you don't hit the basket."

"That's what we've been trying to get Corky to do all year," Lambert said when asked to comment on the performance of his freshman forward. "He played a real fine game."

The conversation continued, Robinson kept leaking compliments to Lambert and his team. "They looked very good tonight, Paul. Very good."

The Saluki swimmers are now the proud owners of a two meet winning streak after SIU sank the Missouri Tigers, 67-45, Friday night and overturned the Indiana State Sycamores, 67-42, Saturday night.

Saluki swimming coach Bob Steele didn't expect much from the Tigers, the number two team in the Big Eight Conference and Steele was right.

SIU took first place in 10 out of the 13 events. "We wanted to get through the meet without any pressure and we were able to do that," Steele said.

Four freshmen, Rick Fox, Dave Boyd, Tony Wickham and Dave Roberts combined to set a new SIU frosh record for the 400-yard freestyle relay with a time of 3:14.61. The old record was held by these same freshmen with a time of 3:18.4.

Besides anchoring the freestyle relay team, Fox had a season best time of 22.09 in the 50-yard freestyle and had a lifetime best time of 48.38 to win the 100-yard freestyle.

Freshman Mike Salerno, the only Saluki to qualify for the NCAA thus far captured first place in the 200-yard backstroke with a time of 2:03.3. The breaststrokes, in Steele's doghouse in the early part of the season are now starting to pull their own.

In the 200-yard breaststroke, the Salukis finished one-two with Paul Schultz finishing first with a time of 2:16.44 and Sergio Gonzales was right behind with a time of 2:18.48.

Steele regarded the Indiana State competition as "just another meet. Fox was the only guy who really swam well," he said.

With a 3-5 dual record to their credit, the Salukis return home for a meet with the Northwestern Wildcats at 3 p.m. Saturday in Pulliam Pool.

The following is a summary of the Missouri meet:

400-Yard Medley Relay—1) SIU (Mike Salerno, Dave Swenson, Ken Merien and Dave Roberts 3:41.72); 2) MU (Rob Kingsbury, Bob Foss, Greg Ness and Carl Anderson, 3:53.50).

Win against Grandview opens Women's Gymnastics Week

By Mark Tupper
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The first competitive event celebrating SIU's women's gymnastics Tenth Anniversary Week had SIU freshman Sandi Gross demonstrating to the 1,200 Kennedy Memorial Meet fans, why she qualified in the United States Gymnastics Federation Elite meet a week earlier.

Gross won each of the four events and amassed slightly more than a 9.0 average to take the all-around competition and lead SIU past the team from Grandview, 102.30 to 93.45. Stephanie Stromer took second on all of the events for SIU.

Women's Coach Herb Vogel sent a "mini-squad" of four women to compete against Grandview's seven-woman team. And the high scores of his two top women carried SIU to the nine point win.

"The debut of our young mini-squad indicates that collegiately the one-two scoring punch of Gross and Stromer clearly puts us in the running for the national collegiate championship," Vogel stated. "But we are still shaky in the next two positions."

Dianne Grayson and Pat Hanlon averaged between 6.25 and 6.35 for SIU. "As a team we blew seven routines, a situation that can be overcome in lesser competition but would be disastrous against the Canadians scheduled next Friday night."

The SIU women then continued their winning ways Saturday against Indiana State, beating the Sycamore women 106.05-101.00.

An improved team effort was led by Stromer and Gross, who posted one-two finishes in all but one event. Both women averaged 9.0 in the all-around competition.

But Vogel's main interest was in the improved effort of his third and fourth gymnasts. "In all honesty," Vogel said, "the shaky Grandview performance predicted an SIU loss at Indiana State." But Vogel pointed to the higher scores of Grayson and Hanlon as the step needed to improve the overall team score.

"At Indiana State we can always expect the unusual and it's a real test to compete with them on their home floor," Vogel pointed out. "Usually we tell the girls that if they can handle the conditions found at ISU, they can survive the season."

The SIU women will continue their week of competition when they host Gustavus Adolphus at 7:30 p.m., Wednesday in the SIU Arena. The entire week of action will wrap-up with the Canadian Olympic Team Friday night.

Gymnasts finish 2-1 on road trip

By John Morrissey
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

The Saluki gymnasts started their three-game road trip with a bang and ended with a thud. SIU gained its first two victories of the season by taking a double dual over Colorado State and Brigham Young Thursday night in Provo, Utah. The Salukis then proceeded to lose dual meets with Arizona State and California by a total of 1.65 points.

Jack Laurie took firsts on still rings (9.35) and parallel bars (9.05) in the Provo double dual, to go with other event victories by Ed Hembd on side horse (9.25) and Jim McFaul in floor exercise (8.95).

SIU outscored Colorado State 158.75-157.75, and easily outdistanced Brigham Young's 154.15. Colorado State was added at the last moment to the originally scheduled dual between SIU and BYU.

Werner Hoeger of BYU captured the all-around with 51.95, in addition to winning the vault (9.3). SIU took the next three all-around places, with Jon Hallberg at 51.55, Kim Wall following with 50.95 and Glenn Tidwell with 50.35.

Hallberg took second behind Hoeger in vaulting with 9.15. Colorado State's Steve Zamora won the horizontal bar with 9.5, Wall finishing third at 9.0.

SIU improved its performance Friday night in Tempe, but was inched out of victory in the final event and lost 160.50-160.35 to Arizona State.

The Salukis tied the running score with only the high bar event remaining, but Mark Dedrich's winning 9.4 carried ASU to a .15 event margin and a meet victory.

Two other high event scores were registered by the Sun Devils: Kent Brown in floor exercise (9.55), and L.J. Larson in side horse with 9.6. Hembd finished a strong second behind Larson with 9.3.

Laurie won his second rings competition of the road trip with 9.4, Tidwell won parallel bars (9.35) and Hallberg took first in vaulting (9.2) on his way to the all-around championship with 52.25 points. Wall was second with 51.45 and Tidwell took fourth with 50.00.

Against California Saturday night the Salukis slipped a bit from the night before and dropped their dual in Berkeley 161.00-159.50.

SIU got solid all-around performances from Tidwell and Hallberg, but had some specialist trouble and lost nearly two points on glaring errors.

Side horse specialist Tony Hanson scored 7.95 on a routine assistant coach Jack Biesterfeldt said should have produced a point more. Hallberg contributed an 8.5 third-man score for the Salukis, but Biesterfeldt said an 8.95 by Hanson could have put an extra .45 onto the Saluki side horse score.

SIU did outscore California on side horse 26.30-25.70 as Ed Hembd won the event with 9.25 and Tidwell chipped in 8.55.

Jack Laurie won his third still rings competition in as many days with 9.45, just ahead of California's Mark Lundy (9.35) and Clark Johnson (9.15). But Laurie literally fell to an 8.4 in parallel bars, a miscalculation Biesterfeldt said cost him .6. SIU had to settle for Wall's 8.55 in the event, a loss of another .45 towards the Saluki total score.

Wall, lately SIU's top high bar man, missed a major part of his high bar routine and was penalized a full point, Biesterfeldt said, down to an 8.15. This time SIU had no one backing up the mishap and Wall's score was counted, bringing the team high bar score down to 25.95.

Biesterfeldt was displeased with Jim McFaul's showing in free exercise to tie freshman Steve Shepard for SIU's top event score. California's scorers all topped 9.0, with Tom Weeden's event-high 9.3 leading the way.

In vaulting, Hallberg's event-high 9.25 beat McFaul's 9.0.

"There is no excuse for him getting less than Jon (Hallberg) does," Biesterfeldt said of McFaul's vaulting. Hallberg is an all-around man, while McFaul is considered a specialist. Biesterfeldt added specialists should be able to score 9.0 in their premier events, and McFaul is supposed to be SIU's specialist in free exercise.

All-around competition, as expected, was furious. California's Weeden took top honors with 52.75, followed by teammate Clark Johnson with 52.20. Johnson also won the high bar event with 9.15. Tidwell's career-high 52.30 was only good for third, and Hallberg's 51.95 placed him fourth. Wall was fifth with 50.75.

Biesterfeldt said in spite of some individual failings, he was pleased with SIU's team scores. "I believe the progress of the team is visible," he commented, and attributed its 2-5 record partly to the caliber of competition SIU scheduled for this year.

The schedule is not going to let up. Wednesday SIU goes against Indiana State, which scored 164.75 points against Northern Illinois last month.

Centenary edges by Salukis, Meriweather

By Mark Tupper
Daily Egyptian Sports Writer

Plagued by cold shooting and a virtual one-man effort, SIU could not ride atop the powerful wave of Joe C. Meriweather and fell 67-65 to the Centenary Gentlemen Monday night in the SIU Arena.

Meriweather's 33-point, 10 rebound showing outdid Centenary giant Robert Parish, but Meriweather got little help from his teammates as the Salukis shot a chilly 39 per cent from the field. Meriweather missed a 15-foot jumper with seven seconds showing to seal the Centenary victory.

The Salukis started the game with a major lineup change. Because of a sprained right ankle, freshman guard Mike Glenn did not start. In his place, SIU Coach Paul Lambert opened with junior college transfer Perry Hines. The Salukis badly missed the offensive and defensive talents of Glenn.

Centenary entered the game in the wake of a two-game losing streak, having dropped an 87-78 decision at Indiana State Saturday night.

The Salukis opened in a man-to-man defense and took an early 6-0 lead. Although much of the attention was focused on Parish, it became obvious early in the going that his forward teammate, Leon "Black Magic" Johnson would be the Gent's scoring machine.

His 17 first-half points paced the Centenary offense. Parish had only four first-half points, but grabbed seven rebounds and blocked several shots.

Meriweather's 13 points led SIU to a 35-31 half time margin. Meriweather held Parish to one of 12 shots from the field in the first half. Both teams shot below 40 percent from the floor in the first period.

The cold first-half shooting of both teams continued in the second period, but Gent guard Barry McLeod got hot long enough to put Centenary in a 39-37 advantage.

Meriweather moved with authority, although Parish was occasionally forced to bring attention to his defense by blocking a shot. His major contribution on defense came by knocking away potential feeds from Saluki players.

The game was tied 12 times in the second half, as Centenary warmed up 6-0 guard David Deets. The senior from Collinsville shelled the Salukis, hitting seven of his eight shots and two free throws for 16 points.

With 7:06 remaining in the game, Parish was called for his fourth personal foul and went to the bench after he was called for a goal tending with 6:53 showing on the clock.

But SIU was not able to take advantage of the huge center. Centenary reeled off six straight points to claim a 61-57 lead.

With the game tied at 65 and 2:30 left in the game, Deets popped in a long jumper to give the Gents a two point lead.

Centenary went into a stall, but turned the ball over to the Salukis with 1:39 left on the clock. When Eddie James missed a jump shot from the baseline, the Gents again got the ball.

With only 14 seconds left, Corky Abrams fouled Johnson to try to get SIU the ball. Johnson threw away the opportunity when he missed the first of his one-and-one free throws, and Meriweather came down with the rebound.

An outlet pass to Shidler and a return pass to Meriweather, gave Joe C. the open shot. He bounced into the air and let his shot fly from near the free throw line, bouncing it off the rim and into the hands of waiting Gent. A desperation foul could not get the Salukis the ball in time to tie the game.

Centenary—Johnson, 11-5-27; Parish, 4-2-10; Deets, 7-2-16; McLeod, 2-2-6; Todd, 1-0-2; Waugh, 1-0-2; Bland, 2-0-4; Totals, 28-11-67.

Salukis—Ricci, 0-2-2; Abrams, 3-0-6; Meriweather, 14-5-33; Shidler, 3-0-6; Hines, 4-0-8; Nixon, 1-0-2; James, 3-0-6; Boynton, 1-0-2; Totals, 29-7-65.
